December 2011

Clean Checks

I am going to take it easy on you this month for clean checks. I will be around on Thursday, December 15th from 3:00 - 5:00 pm, I am mainly just going to check to make sure that your apartments are ready to leave for Christmas break. Obviously I need them relatively clean, but I won't be as strict as usual.

If you are leaving a few days after clean checks, please keep your apartments picked up and don't leave dirty dishes or garbage. I will be checking on the apartments during the break, and if I have to clean up anything that smells, I will charge you...and I'm not cheap. ☺

Ready for Winter?

It's getting cold! Now that winter weather is here, I would like to remind everyone to close your storm windows. Please make sure that both sliding windows are fully closed when it is cold during the day and then especially at night. It wastes a lot of energy to have the furnace work so hard to keep your apartment warm when the heat is leaving through the windows. During clean checks, I will be checking for all storm windows to be closed tight.

Finals

Good luck with finals everyone! I sorta remember what it was like—a lot of stress and very late nights. Just a reminder that even though many of you are in study groups, curfew for guests still needs to be honored. Friends need to leave the apartments by 11:30 pm Sunday - Thursday and by 1:30 am on Friday and Saturday.

Christmas Break

When you leave for Christmas break, please also leave your apartment in good order. Turn the water heater to "vacation" and the heater to away, make sure all your windows are shut with the bars in. Lock the doors, drive safely, don't lose your keys, and have a very Merry Christmas!!

Walkways

Alma will be shoveling the walks and keeping them free from snow and ice. Let us know if there is a problem area that needs our attention. Your safety is important to us.

Can You Help?

January is the time that I start to receive phone calls from people who want to see the apartments. I was wondering if there are some of you who wouldn't mind keeping your apartments clean so I can show them to prospective tenants. If you are interested, just let me know. Thanks!

Safety

Snowball fighting season is here too. We have replaced all of the glass in the fire extinguishers this year. Also, one window was recently broken. Please have fun but use your best judgment and be careful.
